Using an External Hard Drive to Store Sound Content:

SampleScience plugins rely on sound content that is included in the .instruments folder accompanying each plugin.

If you wish to relocate this sound content to an external hard drive, simply move the .instruments folder to your drive.

Once it's done, load the plugin in your DAW and you'll be prompted with this message:

Click on “Choose folder” and locate the .instruments folder on your hard drive. Don't select its content, it's important that you choose the .instruments folder and nothing else.

The sound content folder (.instruments) can be store anywhere on your computer.
